Pancho Villa State Park is in the Village of Columbus, New Mexico, 30 miles south of Deming at the intersection of Highways 9 and 11. From El Paso, take Artcraft Rd. to NM Hwy 9 west for about 65 miles to the Highways 9 & 11 intersection.

The park is located on the grounds of the former 13th Cavalry Camp at Columbus and provides history about the attack by the forces of Pancho Villa on March 9, 1916. General John J. “Black Jack” Pershing and 10,000 U.S. troops assembled in Columbus to pursue Villa and his men into Mexico in what was called the “Punitive Expedition.” The park’s Exhibit Hall features military vehicles—including a Curtiss bi-plane and other artifacts from the era.

The park offers a magnificent 360° view of the Chihuahuan desert from the top of Cootes Hill and a walking trail through the desert botanical garden as well as camping facilities. Regular park fees apply.
